A place to stay on the seafront

Commissioned by Robertson Property, Robertson North East England has started work on the new Premier Inn next to the Spanish City Dome.

Having been awarded the £4.5m contract as another part of the council's Seafront Master Plan. Work is expected to be complete by June 2017, and we will deliver the project with a number of supply chain partners from across the North East. The new three-storey 68-bedroom hotel will welcome guests travelling to see the Dome, and will create 69 jobs.

Norma Redfearn, Mayor of North Tyneside, said: "Seeing the work start on building the new Premier Inn hotel is really exciting and marks another step forward in our multi-million pound plans to breathe new life into the coast at Whitley Bay. The combination of this new hotel and our plans for the Dome will not only mean many more visitors and businesses will be attracted to the town and our coastline, but will also increase confidence in the borough among businesses as somewhere they can flourish."

Garry Hope, Regional MD of Robertson North East England, added: "We were awarded the job by Robertson Property, who have a long-established relationship with Premier Inn. This is a great example of our ability to recruit specialist teams under the Robertson umbrella. It's a more efficient experience for us, the build team and of course the client, who will deal with only one team."
